Alleged Habit of State
Officers of Imposing on
Sing Sing Warden To Be Given Full Investigation

Accountant Is Suspended

Governor and Other Officials
Express Concern
Over Charges by Lawes

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
ALBANY, Dec. 4.—A searching investigation is under way to determine the weight of charges against J. S. Miller, cost accountant of the State Board of Estimate and Control, made by Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing, who said that state employees are using the prison as a "hotel."

"I am investigating the charge against the employees of this department alone," said Mark Graves, presiding head of the board, tonight. "I should think that a general probe of the charges would be up to the Comptroller of the State."

Miller is suspended. The investigation is being conducted by the board of estimate and control, which is the highest authority in the state. The board is composed of the governor, the comptroller, and the state auditor. The board is responsible for the management of the state's finances.

'Tote Gun? Of Course,' Says Woman Deputy

ATLANTIC CITY, Dec. 4.—"Of course I'll carry a gun!" declared Mrs. Rye Ripley, of May's Landing, today after she had been appointed a special deputy sheriff by Sheriff Malcolm Woodruff of Atlantic County.

Mrs. Ripley, who is middle aged and the mother of three children, the eldest a girl of fourteen, is reputed to be a revolver expert. She can hit a dime at fifty feet with a revolver, according to her friends.

imposed upon largely because it is very difficult to obtain accommodations in hotels at Oatining. Mr. Farwell declared. "Hotel accommodations there are very expensive and it is difficult to keep expenses within allowances when stopping there."

Two of the members of the State Prisons Commission live within motor ride of Sing Sing. One is John Kennedy, president of the commission, who resides in New York. The other is Leon C. Weinstein, vice-president of the commission, who also lives in New York.

Justice Blackmar Honored
Members of the Brooklyn Bar Association gathered yesterday in the Appellate Division courtroom, Brooklyn, to honor Abel E. Blackmar, presiding justice, who is to retire January 1. He will then be seventy years old.

Luke D. Stapleton, formerly an associate justice on the Appellate bench, said: "So long as the system of jurisprudence which embraces the common law and the principles of equity prevails, Justice Blackmar's opinions will be confidently consulted for sound reasoning, scholarly research and correct decision. He never uttered a word of heresy against the philosophy of educated mankind."

Silber Is Suspended
Silber, according to Warden Lawes's statement, was requested to leave the warden's residence after a stay there lasting two weeks. The first act of Mr. Silber pending investigation of Warden Lawes's charges. There was a conference between Mr. Silber and Mr. Lawes, but what happened was not made public. It was said unofficially, however, that Silber was subjected to a thorough investigation of the prison warden's charges that he was "welcome" to stay.

A special agent of the Board of Estimate and Control was dispatched to Sing Sing to learn the details of the conference. Governor Miller said:

"I know nothing about it. The incident was investigated and the facts ascertained." This statement was given out after the Governor had talked with Mr. Silber and William J. Miller, Acting State Comptroller. Charles F. Baigan, Superintendent of Prisons, arrived in Albany to-night, carrying a short rest he was taking, and immediately began an investigation of the Silber case. Through the State Prisons Commission, it was learned that Silber is working under Frank Glyn, who is charged with the task of putting the state prisons on an industrial basis.

Assigned at Glyn's Request
"Mr. Silber was assigned to work with the prison department at the request of Mr. Glyn," Mr. Silber admitted. "When Mr. Glyn began the work of reorganizing the prison industries he made a request to the Board of Estimate and Control for a cost accountant, and I assigned Mr. Silber. That is all I know of the situation. When my investigation is completed, I expect to have all the facts of the case."

A meeting of the Prisons Commission is scheduled for Friday at Sing Sing. At that time it is expected the charges that a state employee dropped in for the Thanksgiving dinner with twenty-one guests will be discussed.

An appropriation of $2,000 is made to provide for the entertainment of state officials at Sing Sing. It is in the form of a provision for feeding the officials at the warden's table. This sum, Warden Lawes points out, is inadequate for the purpose for which it is intended. Frederick M. Farwell, Deputy State Comptroller, was quoted as agreeing with this opinion. Mr. Farwell is of the opinion that state officials have been abusing the hospitality of Warden Lawes in remaining at the prison when the purpose of their assignments has been accomplished, or when they have no assignments to justify their visits.

"I have no doubt," said Mr. Farwell, "that reports from Ossining that privileges extended state officials there are being abused by some officials are true. In fact, he declared, the subject was brought up for discussion between himself and Irving Martin, the prison auditor, a few days before the Silber incident was reported."

Policeman Turns Acrobat to Stop Fifth Av. Runaway

Crowd Cheers as He Climbs
Slats of High Crate-Type
Wagon While Frightened
Horse Races Up the Street

They'd always said at the West Thirtieth Street station that Patrolman Joseph Brandreth was a versatile fellow, but not until yesterday did they realize that he possessed the skill of an acrobat. Brandreth demonstrated his gifts at noon before a Fifth Avenue audience, and an audience that was quick to show its appreciation.

Frank Pellegrino, a driver for the Liberty Sponging Company, 27 West Twenty-fourth Street, adjusted a nose-bag on his horse in front of the building and decided that lunch hour was at hand for himself, as well as the horse. Frank hurried off to a restaurant, and his lunch agreed with him. But the horse's didn't.

The animal started east in Twenty-fourth Street at high speed, and turned north to Fifth Avenue. The wagon it was drawing was of the crate type, with lattice work on both sides. Patrolman Brandreth heard cries and saw the horse. He jumped on the rear of the careening vehicle and started toward the front to check the horse's flight, but was stopped by the high crating behind the driver's seat.

Joseph Brandreth, policeman, then became Joseph Brandreth, acrobat. With hundreds of persons looking on from the sidewalks, he began climbing along the side of the wagon, inserting his hands and feet in the lattice-work openings. All the time the wagon was swaying and swinging and the horse moving at full speed.

Brandreth finally reached the front of the wagon, mounted the horse and climbed forward to the animal's neck. He probably would have stopped the runaway unaided, but at Twenty-ninth Street the horse crashed into a pine log protruding from a lumber truck of Gardner & Sons, Hague and West streets, Hoboken, which was crossing the avenue. The impact threw the animal to its knees.

Temperance Women See
How Dry Law Is Enforced

New York County of the Women's Christian Temperance Union held its fall convention in the Washington Square Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday, with morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Mrs. E. C. Clowry, wife of the prohibition director, was the guest of honor.

A demonstration of prohibition law enforcement was a feature of the evening meeting, with members of the W. C. T. U. impersonating judges, Federal agents, police officers and bootleggers. Still and other apparatus were included in the demonstration, which was directed by Mrs. L. M. De Silva.

C. J. Fortman, a Federal prohibition agent, was the speaker of the afternoon. He brought with him a small still, of the variety used for home brewing. Mr. Fortman related some of the experiences he and other agents met with in enforcing the dry laws in New York and New Jersey. Mrs. Yellowley joined with him in saying that the agents were doing "splendid work and should be aided in every possible way."

Miss Hardynia Norville, who has just returned from South America as a missionary from the temperance union, recounted the results of her trip. Mrs. Helen Barton, ex-parish councillor from Glasgow, Scotland, addressed the evening conference. Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the New York County branch, presided at the three sessions.
